Introduction: Treasuring the Treasures

The wisdom of the wise and the experience of the ages are perpetuated by quotations.
---Disraeli

I have been collecting quotations since I was fourteen years old and saw the words It takes both the rain and the sunshine to make a beautiful rainbow engraved on a mug in a catalog that came to our house. After that, I found quotations everywhere- books, movies, t-shirts, and magazines. When I found one that sparked my soul, I copied it carefully into a thick blue spiral notebook.

What did I do with them? I read them from time to time; I used them when writing letters to friends and family. My Aunt Lena once told me that she cherished my letters and always looked forward to them because of my handwritten quotes on the envelopes.

For Inner Treasures, I used some quotations from my own collection, but I also searched for more in many nooks and crannies on the internet and in books that have nurtured me on my life's journey. For the past three weeks, I've been searching for, reading, and typing words of wisdom on the topics of art, imagination, soul, spirit, journey, life, intuition, creativity, growth, and joy.

At this moment I feel particularly blessed and held up by the wisdom I've been privileged to absorb in this amount of time. I see this e-book as a large treasure chest, and each quotation you read is a particular gem: a ruby, a strand of fine pearls, a diamond brooch, an emerald tiara, a handful of sapphires.....

And so the question for you, dear reader, is this: how will you partake of these valuable treasures? Will you pick them up one by one, ever-so-carefully, and examine them in the sunshine? Will you reach both hands in and grab as much as you can carry, all at once? Or will you close the cover and let them sit, unassuming, until you really need them?

That is entirely up to you. The treasures are yours. The wisdom that each contains is already inside of you, waiting for you to recognize it for what it is- a kernel of the deepest truth that affirms that you are a splendid, unique human being, with vast potential, and all the colors of the rainbow in your soul.

You may wonder why the quotes aren't separated into categories. Well, if my Organizer Voice had had anything to say about it, it would have been not only categorized, but indexed as well! However, my Playful, Spontaneous Voice had the final word on this one. I simply decided that it was much more juicy fun to mix them all up, so you wouldn't know what was coming next!

I find myself delighted to see the words of Chief Seattle right next to Mary Lou Retton's, to find Ralph Waldo Emerson nestled up to Nicole Kidman, Picasso sharing space with Kate Winslet, and to know that Kermit the Frog's words are of the same importance as James Thurber's.

This book has been a labor of love. Any misquotings or misspellings are my own human errors and I apologize in advance. Please use the quotations however you like. Copy them into your journal and muse on them. Paint pictures of them, of what they inspire inside of you. Print them out, cut them apart, fold each one up, put them all in a beautiful bowl on your kitchen table and pick one at random each morning to treasure throughout your day. Find one that especially sings to your soul and make a SoulCollage™ card for it. Choose a SoulCollage™ card from your deck that perplexes or haunts you, find the quotation that matches it exactly, and follow it to a deeper understanding.

May you discover new worlds within yourself as you read and savor these quotations. May your SoulCollage™ practice be enriched and emboldened as you internalize the wisdom on these pages.

Please feel free to email me to let me know how you are using the quotations, and which ones particularly are making a difference in your life.

I wish you peace and joy on your journey,
Anne Marie Bennett

Look at the earth crowded with growth, new and old bursting from their strong roots hidden in the silent, live ground, each seed according to its own kind... each one knowing what to do, each one demanding its own rights on the earth.

So artist, you too from the deeps of your soul... let your roots creep forth, gaining strength.

---Emily Carr

O Spirit of Life and Renewal,

We have wintered enough, mourned enough, oppressed ourselves enough.

Our souls are too long cold and buried, our dreams all but forgotten, our hopes unheard.

In this, the season of steady rebirth, we awaken to the power so abundant, so holy, that returns each year through earth and sky.

We will find our hearts again, and our good spirits.

We will love and believe and give and wonder, and feel again the eternal powers.

The flow of life moves ever inward through one faithful spring, and another, and another.

May we be forever grateful.

--- Jane Rzepka

Those whom we have loved never really leave us. They live on forever in our hearts, and cast their radiant light onto our every shadow.

--- Sylvia Rossetti

To call myself beloved, to feel myself beloved on this earth.
---Raymond Carver

What am I doing? I am letting life rain upon me.
---Rahel Varnhagen

Get a life in which you are generous. Look around at the azaleas in the suburban neighborhood where you grew up; look at a full moon hanging silver in a black, black sky on a cold night. And realize that life is the best thing ever, and that you have no business taking it for granted. Care so deeply about its goodness that you want to spread it around. Take money...and give it to charity. Work in a soup kitchen. Be a Big Brother or Sister. .. You want to do well, but if you do not do good too, then doing well will never be enough.
---Anna Quindlen

Everything we feel deeply must be expressed.

Enthusiasm moves the world.
---Arthur James Balfour

There's no inner landscape in the invisible world of our souls and hearts but is full of the most melodious and nourishing and wild freedom. And everyone should go there, to the wild place, where there are no cages, where there are no tight rooms without windows and without doors. Everyone should go to the free clearance places in their own hearts.

---D.H. Lawrence

Hell is not fire and brimstone, not a place where you are punished for lying or cheating or stealing. Hell is wanting to be something and somewhere different from where you are.
---Stephen Levine

The real work of this life is not what we do every day from 9-5. The real work is to disidentify from self-images that were formed a lifetime ago, and from which we still construct our daily lives. The real work is to allow ourselves to be who we already are, and to have what we already have. The real work is to be passionate, be holy, be wild, be irreverent, to laugh and cry until you awaken the sleeping spirits, until the ground of your being cleaves and the universe comes flooding in.
--- Geneen Roth

The only thing better than singing is more singing.
---Ella Fitzgerald

One of the advantages of being disorderly is that one is constantly making exciting discoveries.
---A. A. Milne

I think that one's art is a growth inside one. I do not think one can explain growth. It is silent and subtle. One does not keep digging up a plant to see how it grows.
---Emily Carr

There is a vitality, a life force, an energy, a quickening that is translated through you into action. And because there is only one of you in all time, this expression is unique. And if you block it, it will never exist through any other medium, and (it will) be lost. The world will not have it. It is not your business to determine how good it is, or how valuable, or how it compares with other expressions. It is your business to keep the channel open. You have to keep open and aware directly to the urges that actuate you. Keep the channel open.

--- Martha Graham

It is only with the heart that one can see rightly; what is essential is invisible to the eye.

---Antoine de Saint-Exupery

If you are lucky, and if you live long enough, and if you trust your materials and you trust your instincts, you will see things of beauty growing up in front of you, without you having anything to do with it.

Happiness is to take up the struggle in the midst of the raging storm, and not to pluck the lute in the moonlight or recite poetry among the blossoms.

---Ding Ling, Chinese Author

A man traveling across a field encountered a tiger. He fled, the tiger after him. Coming to a precipice, he caught hold of the root of a wild vine and swung himself over the edge.

The tiger sniffed at him from above. Trembling, the man looked down to where, far below, another tiger was waiting to eat him. Only the vine sustained him.

Two mice, one white and one black, little by little started to gnaw away the vine. The man then saw a luscious strawberry near him. Grasping the vine with one hand, he plucked the strawberry with the other.

How sweet it tasted.

Do not let your fire go out, spark by irreplaceable spark, in the hopeless swamps of the approximate, the not-quite, the not-yet, the not-at-all. Do not let the hero in your soul perish, in lonely frustration for the life you deserved, but have never been able to reach. Check your road and the nature of your battle. The world you desired can be won. It exists, it is real, it is possible, it is yours.

The worst bankruptcy in the world is the person who has lost his enthusiasm.
---H.W. Arnold

I learned to live many years ago. Something really, really bad happened to me, something that changed my life in ways that, if I had my druthers, it would never have been changed at all. And what I learned from it is what, today, seems to be the hardest lesson of all.

I learned to love the journey, not the destination. I learned that it is not a dress rehearsal, and that today is the only guarantee you get. I learned to look at all the good in the world and to try to give some of it back because I believed in it completely and utterly. And I tried to do that, in part, by telling others what I had learned. By telling them this:

Consider the lilies of the field. Look at the fuzz on a baby's ear. Read in the backyard with the sun on your face. Learn to be happy. And think of life as a terminal illness because if you do you will live it with joy and passion as it ought to be lived.

--- Anna Quindlen

Pay no attention to what the critics say; no statue has ever been erected to a critic.

---Jean Sibelius

Artistic growth is, more than anything else, a refining of the sense of truthfulness. The stupid believe that to be truthful is easy: only the great artist knows how difficult it is.

---Rene Seigh

What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.
---Ralph Waldo Emerson

Our deepest fear is not that we are inadequate. Our deepest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure. It is our light, not our darkness, that frightens us. We ask ourselves, “Who am I to be brilliant, gorgeous, talented and fabulous?”

Actually, who are you not to be? You are a child of God. Your playing small doesn’t serve the world. There’s nothing enlightened about shrinking so that other people won’t feel insecure around you. We were born to make manifest the glory of God that is within us.

It’s not just in some of us; it’s in everyone. And as we let our own light shine, we unconsciously give other people permission to do the same.

---Marianne Williamson

If you hear a voice within you say, “You cannot paint,” then by all means paint, and that voice will be silenced.

---Vincent Van Gogh

You’ve got to get up every morning with a smile on your face
And show the world all the love in your heart.

If the path before you is clear, you’re probably on someone else’s.

---Wayne Dyer

The strongest principle of growth lies in human choice.

George Eliot

Let every man or woman here, if you never hear me again, remember this, that if you wish to be great at all, you must begin where you are and with what you are. He who would be great anywhere must first be great in his own Philadelphia.

Insist on yourself; never imitate.

Your own gift you can present every moment with the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation; but of the adopted talent of another you have only an extemporaneous half possession. Do that which is assigned to you, and you cannot hope too much or dare too much.

One hundred percent of the shots you don't take don't go in.

---Wayne Gretzky

When you plant lettuce, if it does not grow well, you don't blame the lettuce. You look for reasons it is not doing well. It may need fertilizer, or more water, or less sun. You never blame the lettuce.

Yet if we have problems with our friends or family, we blame the other person. But if we know how to take care of them, they will grow well, like the lettuce. Blaming has no positive effect at all, nor does trying to persuade using reason and argument.

That is my experience. No blaming, no reasoning, no argument, just understanding. If you understand, and you show that you understand, you can love, and the situation will change.

---Thich Nhat Hanh

If you can dream it, you can DO it.

---Walt Disney

Just as certain selections of music will nourish your physical body and your emotional layer, so other musical works will bring greater health to your mind.

---Gloria Gaither

Passion should overwhelm reason time and again.

---Alvaro Castagnet

Keep me away from the wisdom which does not cry, the philosophy which does not laugh, and the greatness which does not bow before children.

---Kahlil Gibran

Finish every day and be done with it. You have done what you could. Some blunders and absurdities no doubt have crept in; forget them as soon as you can. Tomorrow is a new day; begin it well and serenely and with too high a spirit to be cumbered with your old nonsense. This day is all that is good and fair. It is too dear, with its hopes and invitations, to waste a moment on yesterdays.

---Ralph Waldo Emerson

If a man is to be called a street sweeper, he should sweep streets even as Michelangelo painted, or Beethoven played music, or Shakespeare wrote poetry. He should sweep streets so well that all the hosts of heaven and earth will pause to say, here lived a great street sweeper who did his job well.

---Martin Luther King, Jr.

Who looks outside, dreams.
Who looks inside, awakens.

I am only one, but still I am one. I cannot do everything, but still I can do something. And because I cannot do everything, I will not refuse to do the something that I can do.

---Edward Everett Hale

A wise woman who was traveling in the mountains found a precious stone in a stream. The next day she met another traveler who was hungry, and the wise woman opened her bag to share her food. The hungry traveler saw the precious stone and asked the woman to give it to him. She did so without hesitation. The traveler left, rejoicing in his good fortune. He knew the stone was worth enough to give him security for a lifetime. But a few days later he came back to return the stone to the woman.

“I’ve been thinking,” he said. “I know how valuable the stone is, but I give it back in the hope that you can give me something even more precious. Give me what you have within you that enabled you to give me the stone.”

I still need more healthy rest in order to work at my best. My health is the main capital I have and I want to administer it intelligently.
---Ernest Hemingway

I would rather be ashes than dust! I would rather that my spark should burn out in a brilliant blaze than it should be stifled by dry rot. I would rather be a superb meteor, every atom of me in magnificent glow, than a sleepy and permanent planet. The proper function of man is to live, not to exist. I shall not waste my days in trying to prolong them. I shall use my time.

---John Muir

This is the beginning of a new day. You have been given this day to use as you will. You can waste it or use it for good. What you do today is important because you are exchanging a day of your life for it. When tomorrow comes, this day will be gone forever; in its place is something that you have left behind.... Let it be something good.

---St. Augustine

Every production of an artist should be the expression of an adventure of his soul.
---W. Somerset Maugham

I will not die an unlived life. I will not live in fear of falling or catching fire. I choose to inhabit my days, to allow my living to open me, to make me less afraid, more accessible, to loosen my heart until it becomes a wing, a torch, a promise. I choose to risk my significance; to live so that which comes to me as seed goes to the next as blossom and that which comes to me as blossom, goes on as fruit.
---Dawna Markova

Every blade of grass has its angel that bends over it and whispers, "Grow, grow."

Why should we all use our creative power? Because there is nothing that makes people so generous, joyful, lively, bold and compassionate, so indifferent to fighting and the accumulation of objects and money.
---Brenda Ueland

I am enough. I have wisdom enough. I have faith enough. I know enough. I do not need to strive or strain. I do not need to reach or worry. I am enough. I allow the Universe to act through me. The Universe is more than enough. And so am I.

This we know: all things are connected, like the blood which unites one family.
All things are connected.
Whatever befalls the earth befalls the sons of the earth.

And the moon at night.

---Irving Berlin

When we create something, we always create it first in a thought form.

---Shakti Gawain

We come into this world with our authenticity intact. Slowly we realize that our parents can't see us (because they can't see themselves), don't know us (because they don't know themselves), and if we want their love, we must dress in a costume that pleases them. After years of wearing it, we think the costume is who we are, even when it gets tight and tattered. We get so attached to the costume that we refuse, no matter what the cost, to give it up; it is all we remember of ourselves. Our efforts to change usually consist of adding buttons or trim or rhinestones to the costume; the thought of removing it- letting go of our parents as they live in our bodies- is disorienting, even frightening.
